

Senior Java Developer (m/f)

Do you want to help people to defeat their inner bastard and thus live fitter and healthier? Then you are in the right place with us.

FiTS is a new adaptive motivational program available for Android and iOS since the beginning of 2018. Using motivational psychology techniques with a healthy dose of humor and data science, FiTS helps you change your behavior and stay true to your purposes.

Our goal is to optimize and push these platforms for individual behavior change over the next few years. And that's what we need you for!

To strengthen our product development team in Mannheim, we are looking for an experienced Senior Java Developer (m/w).

You fit with us, if you:

- Feel comfortable with microservices, REST and messaging/queuing.
- You like to contribute, work agile and on your own responsibility.
- If you can talk to your team properly in English (it does not hurt if you also speak German).

That will await you with us:

- You will develop the FiTS backend in a self-organized team.
- You will be involved in product decisions with your team.
- You will integrate wearables to respond individually to user needs, helping to make FiTS THE platform for individual behavior change.
- A modern technology stack: Spring Boot, Spring Cloud, Netflix, Kafka, Spark, MongoDB, Docker, Docker Swarm

What we offer:

- Flat hierarchies and a wide range of decision-making in a young, motivated and dynamic team.
- You take responsibility right from the start. That's why you are not just an employee for us, but part of the team that wants to make a difference. In addition to our sophisticated and professional way of working, we do not forget the fun at work.
- You work with modern equipment in an office in a central location of Mannheim. Free drinks and a bulging fruit basket are secured.
- With us, there are flexible working hours and a performance-based payment and since we also think about your future, we promote in the context of a company pension plan.

If you want to make the world a bit better with your work, then we look forward to seeing you! Simply apply or profile to: jobs@vitaliberty.de